

Developing your knowledge and practice

How we can support you to do this

We all have a responsibility to maintain and develop our knowledge and practice to ensure that we can provide the best possible support to people who use our services. You may be asked to provide a record of learning activities you have undertaken as part of your registration requirements. You might think that this is daunting or requires a lot of work, however there are many ways in which you can do this, and it might not be as hard as you think!

The SSSC is running a workshop to show you how you can identify and record your learning, and importantly, how your learning can be recognised by your employer and others. Why not come along to see how you can be supported to do this, and even try out some of our digital learning resources.

Aim: To help you understand your responsibility to undertake professional learning.

Outcomes for the workshop:

- To explain registration requirements regarding professional learning.
- To show you some resources and other ways of undertaking learning.
- To show you how you can gain recognition for your learning
