

Julie Ritchie

What's important to me...

My family is the most important thing in my life. I love spending quality time with them, especially on holiday and day-trips.

My life tends to revolve around my children and their activities, so I love that my work is flexible enabling me to enjoy a balance between work and family life.

My fitness classes are also important to me. I strive to live a healthy lifestyle with lots of walking.

I always like to get things done right (bit of a perfectionist). If something is worth doing, then it's worth doing right!

Making people around me happy is important to me, and I always aim to please others.

I like to know I am getting a good deal and love shopping in the sales.

I like to be organised and plan things down to the finest detail.

I like to try new things (food, activities, destinations)

What people like and admire about me...

Good time management - "Plate-spinner" holding lots of things in my life
Dedicated and hard working
Friendly and approachable
Caring and warm
Light-hearted and fun-loving
Patient and thoughtful
Positive professionalism
People and family-orientated
Supportive and grounded
Energetic

How best to support me...

Give me as much (pertinent) information as possible.

I like to know plans and details so I can then structure my time accordingly.

I like to take time to process new or lengthy information

I like reassurance that I have done something well, and constructive criticism is welcome to allow me to learn and improve

Having some time to take part in fitness classes for my own wellbeing rather than always leading the class as the instructor
